Understanding Underage DUI

A key step in initiating your defense is understanding what an underage DUI entails and the laws that govern it in Utah.

Utah's Zero Tolerance Law

Utah's Zero Tolerance Law makes it illegal for anyone under the age of 21 to operate a vehicle with any measurable amount of alcohol in their system. This further heightens the need for an experienced DUI criminal defense lawyer.

Consequences of an Underage DUI

The consequences of an underage DUI conviction are severe, impacting various aspects of life from employment to education.

Mitigating the Underage DUI Consequences

With the help of skilled DUI defense lawyers, mitigating these consequences, protecting your rights, and working towards a more favorable outcome is possible.

Navigating Underage DUI Laws in Utah

Understanding the Legislation

In Utah, the underage DUI laws are stringent due to the state's Zero Tolerance policy for drivers under 21 who have any measurable amount of alcohol in their system. This law makes it illegal for underage drivers to operate a vehicle with a Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) of .02 or higher, significantly lower than the .08 limit for drivers aged 21 and over.

Implications and Penalties

Violations of these underage DUI laws can result in severe penalties, including license suspension, fines, and even jail time in certain circumstances. Additionally, a DUI conviction can have long-lasting impacts on an individual's personal and professional life, including potential limitations on employment opportunities and increased insurance rates. Therefore, understanding these laws and having a strong defense strategy is vital.

Frequently Asked Questions on Underage DUI

What constitutes an underage DUI in Utah?

In Utah, an underage DUI is defined by the state's Zero Tolerance Policy. This means that any individual under the age of 21 found operating a vehicle with a Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) of .02 or higher can be charged with an underage DUI. This limit is significantly lower than the .08 BAC standard set for individuals aged 21 and older.
